About Holst Singers

"The Holst Singers sing with a spellbinding sense of atmosphere and crystal-clear textures... supremely musical"
BBC Music Magazine

The Holst Singers are one of Britain's foremost choirs, described by the BBC as "a leading chorus on the international stage". In addition to their busy concert diary in and around London and at festivals, they frequently broadcast on Classic FM and BBC Radio 3, and regularly record for leading classical labels.

With the support of their President, James Bowman, and Musical Director, Stephen Layton, the choir has developed an interest in exploring new and neglected works as well as the core choral repertoire.

Other recent events in the last year have included a performance of Schnittke's Requiem, and an evening of sacred works by Thomas Tallis and Arvo Pärt, described by The Times as "interactive concert-going at it's most revelatory". Forthcoming events include further performances in the series The Sensual and the Spiritual - the exploration of the works of Pierre Villette, a candlelight performance of Rachmaninoff's Vespers, his epic choral setting of the Russian Orthodox All-Night Vigil, and an exploration of Edward Elgar's choral music.

St Joseph's Hospice:

St Joseph's supports people and families, not just patients and symptoms.

St Joseph's team of specialist doctors, nurses, social workers and other skilled staff and volunteers, provides pain control and symptom relief for those whose illness cannot be cured. Patients are treated both in their own homes and in the hospice on Mare Street in Hackney. In-patients at St Joseph's enjoy some of the most modern facilities in Europe which have been designed to accommodate the diverse needs of the many communities we serve.

The care and treatment available at St Joseph's helps patients live as actively as possible for as long as possible. It also supports the whole person, offering practical, emotional and spiritual help in addition to the medical care.

The Day Hospice, social work team, chaplaincy, bereavement and children's bereavement services all work to meet the needs of those with cancer and other life limiting illnesses as well as those of their families and carers.

St Joseph's provides a full range of community and inpatient services to the people of Hackney, City of London, Newham and Tower Hamlets, as well as inpatient care for people in Camden, Enfield, Haringey, Islington, Redbridge and Waltham Forest.
